DRUGGIST TELLS OF SOLDIERS WAIT FOR TAXI CAB ON NIGHT OF HANGING

Dr. J. W. Knox Takes Stand for State in Lancaster Trial

SCORE OF ADDITIONAL WITNESSES CALLED

Defense May Seek to Prove Lancaster Was in Jasper at Time

(International News Service)

HAMILTON, Ala., Jan. 10.—That Sergeant Robert Lancaster and several other national guardsmen waited in his drug store at Townley for several hours on the night of January 13, 1921, prior to the lynching of Will Baird, a miser at Jasper, and that shortly before midnight the soldiers left Townley in an automobile driven by Leslie West, a taxicab driver, driving toward Jasper, was the story related by Dr. J. W. Knox, a druggist, when he was called to the stand by state's attorneys this morning when the trial of Lancaster was resumed.

Knox declared that the soldiers conversed cautiously between themselves, pending the arrival of West and as soon as the latter arrived the soldiers left the drug store, climbed into the car and drove rapidly away in the direction of Jasper.

His story was corroborated by Beecher O'Brien and Clarence Lacey, who declared they were in the drug store while the soldiers were there and also when they left. These witnesses also testified that Lancaster and his associates drove toward Jasper after leaving Townley.

On being cross examined O'Brien admitted that he was a member of the United Mine Workers of America. A score of additional state witnesses are scheduled to be heard this afternoon and tomorrow, when it is believed the state will rest.

Witnesses for the defense will begin giving testimony either Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning if the expectation of both factions materializes and it is believed that the case will be in the hands of the jury by Thursday night or Friday morning.

It is rumored that attorneys for Lancaster will endeavor to show that neither he nor the other defendants were in Jasper on the night Baird was lynched.

Usona Lodge of Machinists Have New Officers Now

A largely attended meeting of Usona Lodge of Machinists was held at Carmen's Hall last night, when the officers elected in December were installed by Jos. D. Bristol, general chairman for Machinists of the Louisville and Nashville system. A rising vote of thanks was given C. H. Haas, retiring secretary, following the installation.

Addresses were had from the new officers, some of them taking occasion to impress the importance of all poll taxes, both of women and men, being paid on or before the first of February. By unanimous vote, the lodge instructed its representatives to the district convention which meets in Birmingham February 13, to support J. D. Bristol for general chairman for the next town of office, which is for two years. Robert Beeghman, chairman of the business committee, was elected delegate to this convention with J. E. Blair as alternate. A lengthy address was made by J. D. Bristol, under the head of "Good and Welfare," and a number of others made talks. Following the regular routine of business the lodge adjourned to meet again in two weeks.

BRIAND OPPOSED

(International News Service)

PARIS, Jan. 10.—Another hard struggle to overthrow the ministry of Premier Briand is forecast in the session of parliament which began this afternoon. It was stated that only minor questions would be discussed, pending the return of the Premier from Cannes at the end of the week.

As soon as Briand gets back the chamber will take up foreign policy and the result of the supreme council meeting. A canvass of the members of the chamber indicates that it will oppose recognition of the Moscow soviet by France and will refuse French consent to an indemnity moratorium for Germany.

There was slight optimism among the deputies as to the result of the Cannes meeting. Many declare that Briand deceived the chamber when he announced that he was going to Cannes with his hands free and that France was not bound to any cut and dried program.

Dispatches from Cannes have revealed that Briand and Premier Lloyd George undertook certain engagements at London which the French Premier did not repudiate when the council met. The London conferences referred chiefly to German reparations.

Oppose Bill for Press Censorship

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—To Postmaster General Hays announced opposition to the bill pending in the senate, which would make it an offense for newspapers to publish racing news, today was added the strenuous objection of a number of newspaper publishers. The bill, intended primarily to prevent transportation of lottery and cheating devices through the mails, already has passed the house, but it was indicated today that serious efforts will be made to defeat it in the senate.

"A far-reaching censorship of the press would be established by the pending bill," Senator Stanley, Democrat, of Kentucky, declared today.

Entire Class in Local School Has Savings Accounts

The automatic savings bank, installed by the Central National and the Morgan County National banks in the Albany schools, are proving very popular with the students.

Section A of the Sixth grade, in the Albany schools, has won a banner offered by the banks to the class which was first to reach the 100 per cent mark in savings account. Every member of the class now has a savings account. The class is taught by Mrs. W. F. Jones.

Under the system recently installed students are permitted to place small change in the banks in the schools; receiving stamps for the money. The stamps are pasted in books and at intervals the books are taken to the bank and the student given credit for the stamps.

DR. WELCH AGAIN ELECTED HEALTH OFFICER OF STATE

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany, Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 10.—Dr. S. W. Welch, of Talladega, for five years state health officer of Alabama, was reelected for a term of five years by the state committee of public health in annual meeting at the health building Monday afternoon. Dr. Welch was the only person nominated for the position and was elected by the unanimous vote of the committee.

Governor Kilby, who was made ex-officio chairman of the board of health by the health law of 1919, presided at the meeting. This was the last act of a conference which continued throughout the day and during which Dr. Welch made an informal report on the work of the health department during the past year. This report will be placed in book form as soon as possible.

Dr. Welch became head of the public health work of Alabama as the successor of Dr. W. H. Sanders, of Mobile, who was forced to retire because of ill health after a long service as state health officer. Since he became health officer great extensions have been made in the health work and by the action of the legislature of 1919 the annual appropriation from the state treasury for health work has increased from $25,000 to $150,000. In addition to this amount, the United States public health service and other agencies are spending about $100,000 more in Alabama annually under the direction of the state health department, making a total expenditure of a quarter of a million dollars annually in health work each year.

Members of the committee of public health who were present at the meeting during the day were Dr. V. P. Gaines, of Mobile; Dr. W. R. Jackson, of Mobile; Dr. W. D. Partlow, of Tuscaloosa; Dr. S. G. Gay, of Selma; Dr. B. L. Wyman, of Birmingham; Dr. H. S. Ward, of Birmingham; Dr. R. S. Hill, of Montgomery; Dr. J. N. Baker, of Montgomery, and Dr. W. S. Britt, of Eufaula.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 10.—Henry Ford will leave here Thursday for Washington, where he will confer with Secretary of War Weeks, it was learned today.

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Rumors said to have started from authoritative sources are current here today to the effect that Secretary of War Weeks will recommend to congress that Henry Ford's offer for the Muscle Shoals property in North Alabama be accepted.

Weeks, it is rumored, will make his recommendation to congress following a personal conference with Mr. Ford, scheduled to be held the latter part of this week.

Ford, it is understood, will agree to some modification of his original offer. Weeks has admitted that Ford's offer is the only one received so far that could be given serious consideration. While these rumors were being circulated it was learned that C. C. Tinkler, rival bidder with Ford for the property and president of the North American Construction company, of San Francisco, also has modified his offer so as to include a guarantee for the operation of the nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals, if his offer is accepted.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The tentative offer recently submitted to the war department by C. C. Tinkler, president of the North American Construction company, for the Muscle Shoals water power project, has been returned to the company's home office in San Francisco for modification it was learned today.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 10.—Henry Ford will make another trip of inspection to Muscle Shoals on January 20 and it was learned today by C. W. Rittenous, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. This information was contained in a telegram sent to Mr. Rittenous from the Washington offices of the National Farm Bureau Federation.

FLORENCE, Ala., Jan. 10.—Edward A. O'Neal, well known Lauderdale county farmer, and President of the Lauderdale County Farm Bureau, has been informed that Henry Ford will visit Muscle Shoals the latter part of January. The telegram, which conveyed this information, was received today by Mr. O'Neal and is signed by three representatives of the Southern region of the American Farm Bureau federation and reads as follows: "You are hereby notified of the calling of a meeting of presidents, secretaries and other interested in farm bureau work of the Southern group for January 20 and 21 at Muscle Shoals, at which time Henry Ford has promised to be with us. Kindly invite all parties to this meeting from your state."

Mr. O'Neal made no comment on the telegram, except to say that it is in line with and part of the farm bureau program to have Muscle Shoals properly operated.

DIFFICULTY OVER NAVAL TREATY TO DELAY SAILING OF ARMS DELEGATES

Virtually Certain That Conference Will Continue Toward End of January

CHANGE OF PLANS TO DELAY PARLEY'S END

The American Delegates Hold Meeting Today With Secretary Hughes

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Difficulties in the adjustment of the five-power naval treaty and more particularly in connection with the far east side of the armament conference have arisen in such numbers as to make it virtually certain that the parley will continue well toward the end of January, it was learned today.

Arthur J. Balfour, head of the British delegation, who had planned to sail for England on Saturday, has cancelled his passage and will remain in Washington for another ten days at least.

Both British and Japanese delegations now plan to leave during the last week in January. The explanation offered for the change in plans was that the questions that remain to be adjusted are too numerous for quick settlement.

One of them is that portion of the five-power naval treaty, dealing with Pacific fortifications. Another is the Shantung question, with which Balfour is directly associated as one of the two mediators. Each of the delegations, American, British, French, Japanese and Italian, met today individually to consider the treaty prior to the meeting of the heads of delegations in the Pan-American building.

The American delegation met with Secretary Hughes at the state department. Later Hughes will meet Balfour, Kato, Surrett and Shanzer.

More Than Million Is Paid as Taxes by Automobile Owners

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany, Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 10.—Automobile owners paid into the treasuries of the state, counties and cities $1,147,265 for licenses during the fiscal year which ended September 30, 1921, according to figures made public by the state tax commission today. Of this total amount, the state treasury received $917,812, which was placed in a special fund for the construction of public roads and highways and for the maintenance of those already constructed.

Persons interested in the highway bond campaign pointed with pride to the figures after they were announced, saying they supported previous declarations that the collections from motor vehicle licenses would be sufficient to pay the interest on the highway bonds which will be issued if the vote in the election January 30 is favorable and that after the interest has been met annually the remainder of the fund will be sufficient to maintain the roads and to provide a sinking fund for the retirement of the bonds as they become due.

During the preceding fiscal year the total revenue from automobile licenses was $1,041,225, of which the state received $832,980. When the license act was passed in 1914 the total collections for the first year were $113,350, of which amount the state received $68,010, or sixty per cent of the total. The state now receives eighty per cent of the total.

TEN REASONS WHY WE ARE FOR HIGHWAY
AMENDMENT—ELECTION JANUARY 30

- 1—It gives us permanent highways without taxation.
- 2—It means a boom to business in Alabama in 1922.
- 3—It returns to us some of the money we have paid the federal government in taxation.
- 4—It means we shall have roads which can be traveled to markets and schools every day in the year.
- 5—It means the employment of men, animals and machines which have been idle since the period of depression began.
- 6—It actually reduces our taxes because we are relieved of the mud and rut taxes which take thousands of dollars annually.
- 7—It means that our own state proposes to take advantage of the opportunity offered by the federal government to obtain roads at government expense.
- 8—It provides an equitable system whereby the state will guarantee every county, roads costing not less than $250,000 of state funds and $250,000 of federal funds.
- 9—It relieves each county of a heavy financial burden because roads constructed by state and federal governments will be maintained by automobile license funds.
- 10—It means that the federal government, co-operating with the state in the construction of roads, will see that roads are well constructed and the expenditure of all money safeguarded.

IRISH QUESTION SETTLED;
BUT UNDER PROTEST

It is to be devoutly hoped that Michael Collins, a chief signatory of the Irish treaty, and who is credited with being "the organizer of the Republican army in Ireland," was a true prophet when he said Saturday "every thinking man knows that the world is now entering into an era of peace." Mr. Collins is doubtless led, in part, to such a belief, because of his own desires and because his own country after 700 years of strife against England, has just ratified a treaty which creates "The Irish Free State," and gives dominion home rule to the Emerald Isle. The distance is too great and the issues too complicated for Americans to enter fully into the merits of this new epoch making treaty, but there is not a peace loving American who has not heaved a sigh of relief that the conflict in Ireland has passed from a clash of arms, to the arbitration of reason, and to a large measure of liberty under law.

The mutual interests of Ireland, and of England are too great, and their geographical location too close, for an entire and absolute separation to have taken place. Former President De Valera admitted this much to be true when once agreed to sign a treaty to such an effect, although just at the present he seems to believe the Irish "republic must go on" to use his expression at the close of the memorable battle of ballots, in which he and his supporters lost by a majority of seven votes—record being 64 votes for a dominion status for Ireland and 57 against.

Because the victory for peace was by such a narrow margin, because the De Valera following seems to be unwilling to gracefully submit to majority rule, and because Ulster, a North of Ireland domain seems unwilling to join in with the new Irish Free state, leaves some doubt as to how peaceful the final disposition of the "Irish question" is to be. It was not to be expected that as far reaching and as fundamental a change as the new treaty provides for could have been effected without some discord and bickering. Reports of a few weeks ago show that the moment the treaty was submitted to the Sinn Fein party asunder.

Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith, who had recommended the adoption of the treaty, were violently opposed by De Valera, "the President of the Irish Republic," and Charles Burgess.

The following from a reliable cable message describing the final vote on the treaty, makes thrilling reading matter:

As soon as it (the vote) was announced, De Valera arose and addressed the meeting. "I suppose I should resign," he said, hesitatingly. "I do not know whether I should do so now or later."

Loud cries of "Now! now!" interrupted him.

"If I resigned, I should demand that the people decide the issue," De Valera responded.

De Valera, until a few weeks ago, the hero of all Ireland and of all Irishmen throughout the world, beaten in the long, weary campaign against the treaty, stood solemnly at his place and heard the Irish parliament members yell for his resignation. He stepped from his high position as president of the republic, for which he had long battled and which now seems dead, and took up his new place as leader of the minority.

Although, De Valera is at present defeated, he may be expected to continue to be a power in Ireland. He has great determination and ability, and his American birth will tend to inspire him to make what we call "a come back."

He was born in New York city. His mother before her marriage was Kate Cool, a native of Limerick Co. Ireland. Before the Irish arising in 1916 he was teaching Gaelic, at the Royal College, Dublin.

A monotonous journey is greatly relieved by the determination to reach the end.

THE BOND ISSUE

"Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter." What are we striving to do by urging the adoption of the bond issue? What is there to it? Why do we want it? To the first question; we are trying to get the county out of the everlasting mud that we have been plodding along in for a generation. There is absolutely nothing selfish in this desire. To the second question; there is to it the construction of highways all over the different sections of each county; there is the help that we will get from the National government, that unless voted and used at this time, more progressive counties will avail themselves of the opportunity, and get the money that we should have had; there is every reason to believe that the automobile tax will take care of the issue, without ever raising taxation, or touching any other fund. To the third question; now is the time for this development. Better school buildings are springing up all over the state, and speaking locally, there has been more improvement in the schools of the county, taking the rural ones as well, than has been noticed for the past ten years. Better buildings are being constructed, better teachers employed; and to keep pace with this development, there must be a system of good roads that will inspire the youth of the country to this higher idea, and good roads are inseparably forged in the link of good schools.

There is another feature connected with this desire on the part of the enthusiasts in this most progressive move, and that is, there are many idle people in this state and county, and much of this money expended will come back to us, while we are doing the thing that all progressive states have long ago done.

Good roads cannot come by every man's door, quite true; but there can and will be main roads constructed in every section of the county, and lateral roads can be built out to intercept these.

It is no time to incite prejudice; no time to lag behind; no time to neglect so important an undertaking; no time to stir up dissatisfaction, because now is the time, while we have the means of getting such substantial assistance from the National government.

Study the matter carefully, and if you do not fully understand the plan, there are others who do, and will gladly endeavor to explain the plan so that you may grasp it.

ONE MORE FALSE
STATEMENT NAILED

There is a well known statement to the effect, that wherever a church is built, Satan erects close by a chapel devoted to his worship. Shakespeare made the statement in question, and he evidently meant for it to have a general application; namely, that wherever good work is begun, evil work is also attempted. A case in point just now, illustrating this truth, is the attempt of its evil wishers to misrepresent the proposed good roads bond issue, upon which we are to vote January 30th. The Daily is informed that reports are being circulated, stating among other things that in case the good roads bond issue carries, toll gates will be placed throughout the county, and the money to pay for the new roads, collected from each and every person who passes the road, whether riding or on foot. Such a report is without foundation in fact, to use diplomatic language in denying it. If this statement is not sufficiently emphatic, if some of the thousands of good roads advocates will furnish us more emphatic language, provided it is printable—we will be glad to employ it. The absolute weakness and hopelessness of the cast of the enemies of the good roads bond issue, could be made no plainer than their use of such false and misleading propaganda.

In order to be sure nobody believes the report referred to, explains why the Daily has called attention to it, and denounced it as false in every particular.

While on the subject of the good roads bond issue, it might be well to place here for reminding the public certain of the official questions and answers, as sent out under the authority of F. J. Crampton, of Montgomery, President of the Alabama Highway Improvement Association, and approved by J. W. Clopton, Chairman of the Morgan county committee now supporting the bond issue. First, the questions and answers, as to how the bonds and interest will be paid, will be given, as they show that automobile taxes and not toll gate fees are to pay the bill. Questions and answers No 8 to 11 inclusive as contained in the official catechism showing the relation of automobile taxes to the payment of the bond issue are herewith given:

8. Ques.—How will the interest on these bonds be paid and out of what fund?

Ans.—Interest will be paid semi-annually out of the motor vehicle fund.

9. Ques.—What is the state's share of the motor vehicle fund?

Ans.—For the fiscal year ending September 30th, 1921, it was $917,811.50.

10. Ques.—After the interest on bonds is paid what becomes of the remainder of this motor vehicle fund?

Ans.—The remainder must be used for the creation of a sinking fund to pay off these bonds when due and for the maintenance of roads constructed.

11. Ques.—Will the motor vehicle fund increase?

Ans.—For the past five years motor vehicles have increased at an average annual rate of more than 25 per cent. We may expect at least an average annual increase of 10 per cent for the next seven or eight years, which of course, means just that much increase in revenue from that source.

Give the boys and girls of the rural districts a chance; a good system of roads will help largely toward that end. Somebody has to live in the country, if they did not the whole business would have to close up shop. Make the country inviting as far as is the power to so do, and those of the present will have contributed largely in laying the foundation of a better future.

A country school cannot thrive where there are no good roads. The task of attending becomes so great a burden that many fall out before they even complete the studies that are prescribed to this feature of our school system.

The world moves with perfect regularity, and so does the gas meter.

AN UNWARRANTED
ATTACK ON THE SOUTH

Regrettable as was the Government's failure accurately to forecast the cotton crop, it is still more regrettable that a paper of the standing of the Journal of Commerce - - - should make it the basis for a bitter attack upon the cotton interests of the South, its Southwide organization of cotton producers, and personal abuse of one of the South's most esteemed citizens.

The attack upon the American Cotton Association and upon its president, Mr. J. Skottowe Wannamaker, whose personal character and business reputation are above reproach, is predicated upon the campaign made last fall for a reduction in acreage to prevent the raising of another large crop on top of a record-breaking yield, at that time largely unsold. The manufacturer, whether of cotton goods or of any other commodity, when he finds himself overstocked, immediately shuts down his plant until the surplus is disposed of, or else runs at reduced capacity. This is plain business sense. Why, then, should the cotton producer, when confronted with identically the same situation, be denied the same remedy?

The campaign for the reduction of acreage has had the sanction of banking officials everywhere, and in the highest Government circles it was declared to be suicidal for the South to raise another large crop on top of the one already on hand. This was the situation confronting the South a year ago, and its plan of procedure was economically sound. The Journal of Commerce admits that the Government's low estimate had a beneficial effect, in that it advanced the price of cotton long enough to liquidate many of the frozen loans, and therefore justify the attempt of the Southern cotton raisers to resort to all legitimate means to raise the price of their product.

The motive behind this attack is not altogether clear. The Journal of Commerce has not been conspicuous for its friendship to the South, as has been shown, for example, by its hostility to the Southern wholesale grocers. Apparently it is its desire to keep the price of cotton as low as possible, regardless of the impoverishment of those who produce it. If the attack was calculated to win favor with the speculative element, it was poor business, because there are always two sides to a market, and wherever there is a bear there is also a bull. If it was in the interests of the British buyers, it is more understandable, for from that standpoint it is a successful enterprise.

If it was the intention to curry favor with the American manufacturers on the theory that it desired to help them buy cotton at the lowest possible price, the Journal of Commerce has miscalculated. Mill owners are naturally keen business men, but as a class they are honorable men and sticklers for ethical business practice. They are willing that the farmers should get a fair price for their cotton, for they know that if the South is impoverished a large portion of the buying power of the country is going and with it a proportional outlet for the finished goods. They are human enough not to be willing to make their profits out of suffering fellow beings. Furthermore, they are not so much interested in the price of raw cotton being low as they are in having it upon a stable basis, for the cost of the raw material is always absorbed in the selling price, nor can there be an abnormal difference between the price of raw cotton and the finished goods. Hence, a campaign for cheap raw cotton is silly.

The New York Commercial has understood, probably better than any other Northern newspaper, the problems of the South and has sympathized with its people in their efforts to solve these economic questions. Surely the principal industry of fourteen states is entitled to a hearing.—New York Commercial.

Good light biscuits, a fine cup of coffee and some real fine yellow butter, do much to put a working feeling in the average individual, especially of mornings.

When the day is done, and the homeward trend is evident, the smoke curling from the kitchen flue causes quickened steps, and the palate at once assumes a business attitude.

The reality that the personal work you are performing is for you to complete in the best possible manner, and that you alone are the architect of it, is the right position to assume.

Down the roadway of the new year, the millions of earth have fairly well started on the trip. Many have fallen even in the short distance traveled thus far. Many more will fail to respond at the close.

Speaking from a business standpoint, it would augur for more sanity in the business relations of life. Steady productive business is better at any time than the past experiences of more business than reason. Catch a live gait and keep it, not striving to go beyond the bounds of reason or propriety.

Many good and commodious school buildings have been erected in this county during the past eighteen months; back them up with good roads in close proximity to them, that these who attend the schools may have a way to get to and from them without wading mud the entire school term.

The genuineness of any act is either bettered or marred by the manner in which that act is done. Cheerfulness and a willingness to assist in great undertakings is a very distinguishing mark.

Rats are said to destroy five dollars worth of valuable food products every year. Taking the rat population as several million is readily seen that this is a great drain on the resources of a nation, and they absolutely return nothing. A drive of extermination should be conducted in every section to rid the country of these pests that are a constant menace to all, the least feature not being the public health.

Duggan; Local Government Affairs, Deputy Cosgrave; Economics, Deputy Higgins.

County Court to Open January 31

Subpoenas are being issued from the sheriff's office getting ready for the term of county court that will convene on January 31. Judge Lowe will preside, and the court will be held here. It was talked of holding it at Hartselle, but as most of the litigation concerns the citizens of this section it was decided to hold the sessions here.

Flowers Found New Home.

It is not generally known that the belladonna lily was procured from South America in 1593, while the Guernsey lily was brought from Japan and was first cultivated at the beginning of the seventeenth century in the garden of an Englishman in Paris. This plant is said to have derived its name from the following episode. A ship, laden with bulbs, was wrecked off the coast of Guernsey. A number of the bulbs were cast upon the shore and took root in the soil, where they grew rapidly.

Government Plan to Buy Up Booze

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—President

Harding probably will be asked in a few days to approve a plan of his advisers for the government to buy up all whiskey and other distilled spirits in bonded and general distilling warehouses, it was learned today. About 50,000 gallons of whiskey and other liquors including pure alcohol are in bond, subject to payment of government tax before they may be withdrawn.

The administration plan is to buy all of the liquor and to hold it for distribution for medicinal purposes. The proposal is designed to safeguard the liquor stocks left and to bring about closer supervision in the distribution for legitimate needs.

COTTON MARKET IS STIMULATED

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—Small ginning figures for the period had a stimulating effect on cotton prices at the opening today and the list opened 9 to 17 points higher. Liverpool, Japan and other foreign interests were the best buyers.

The selling was quite active, mostly from Wall street and Southern wire houses and eventually checked the rise, so that by the end of the first 15 minutes quotations were off a little from initial levels. Three notices were issued.

Live Up to Their Name.

The French invented the automobile, and they also invented the name. It is derived from the Greek "autos," self, and the French "mobile," movable, also uncertain and changeable. Perhaps it is because of its name that some automobiles are so temperamental. One can't very well call a thing uncertain and unchangeable and expect it to act in any other manner.

PEPPER TAKES OATH AS U. S. SENATOR

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—George Pepper, noted Philadelphia lawyer, was sworn in at 12:05 o'clock today as the senatorial successor of the late Boise Penrose. The oath was administered to the new Pennsylvania senator by Vice President Coolidge in the presence of members of the Pepper family and a number of well known Pennsylvania politicians, including Governor William C. Sprout, to whom Pepper owed his appointment.

Artificial Leg Affects Watch.

Good watches lose in accuracy by exposure to a magnetic field. A war veteran working in a watch factory found it difficult to keep his watch right. Knowing something of magnetism, it occurred to him that the steel in his artificial leg might be magnetized. He experimented and found this to be the case. He went to an electric light company and had his leg demagnetized. After this treatment his watch kept perfect time.—Popular Science Monthly.

Every Small Boy Knows It.
The man who first loved a dog—probably a puppy which he had taken from its mother's lap—placed mankind under a profound obligation for all time. We can imagine the sense of friendly security which the presence and the fidelity of that puppy, grown up to doghood, gave that primitive man—Svetozar Tonjoroff in the Boston Herald.

Discrimination.

A salesman recently told the Bow street magistrate that no swearing is allowed nowadays in Covent Garden market. This exclusion of all golfers, ratepayers, and spring-cleaning victims is surely rather drastic.—Punch (London).

Mooresville Native Dies in Kentucky

Haywood Shelton died at his home in Union County, Kentucky, on Thursday of last week. He was born in Mooresville, Ala., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shelton, residents there before the civil war, and whose remains rest in the cemetery south of Mooresville. Haywood Shelton made his home in Kentucky after a service of four years in the Confederate army returning at intervals to North Alabama to visit the scenes of his childhood, his friends and relatives. CLUE FOUND

(International News Service)
ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 10—What police declared to be a striking clue in the mysterious murder of J. Russell Compton, Atlanta manufacturer, who was shot through the head, was in possession of detectives today. It is a box used for packing an automatic pistol, such as was used to kill Compton. Within the box were several cartridges and part of a letter bearing Compton's name. The box was sent to chief of detectives with a note explaining it was found on the outskirts of the city Friday morning.

Men's Meeting at the Westminster

The men's meeting held at Westminster Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon at five o'clock was unique in character and fraught with great possibilities for the future, so expressed by those who attended.

The meeting was conducted by E. F. Baird, and every seat was taken, and the interest manifested was very enthusiastic.

Addresses were made by E. C. Payne and Morgan Rainey. Mr. Payne spoke in a very forcible manner on the subject, "The Business of the Church." Mr. Rainey spoke along the lines of backing up the pastor.

A twelve piece orchestra, led by W. J. Montgomery, furnished the instrumental music. A double quartet was another feature of the occasion that was greatly enjoyed. Other addresses were made by the pastor, Rev. L. F. Goodwin, and Mr. Baird.

So enjoyable was the occasion that it was the consensus of opinion that the meeting would be held throughout the year, once each month.

The meeting lasted just one hour, was so timed and managed that there was not a dull minute during the entire time, as these business men of the church discussed the problems that lay before them and sought, by coming together, to be better prepared to solve them.

A "balanced diet" may sound confusing to many people

The facts, as explained here, are simple.

The secret of a "balanced diet" is to have food containing all the elements needed for proper nutrition. These elements are protein, to nourish the tissues; starch and sugar to furnish energy; fat to supply heat; and mineral salts to provide the material necessary for building nerves, brain, and tooth and bone structure.

Grape-Nuts, the nourishing cereal made of whole wheat flour and malted barley, served with cream or milk, is a complete food for young and old alike.

Go to your grocer today and get a package of Grape-Nuts. Eat it with milk or cream for breakfast; or with stewed fruit, jelly or jam, as a delicious dessert for lunch or dinner.

Every member of the family will relish this palatable and nourishing food—

When the King Goes to the Opening of Parliament

The pomp and ceremony of old featured the arrival of the Royal Family of England at the opening session of Parliament, where the Anglo-Irish Treaty was ratified. The above photographs show the State Coach, bearing King George and Queen and Princess Mary, passing the Mall, London. Mrs. Margot Asquith, wife of the former Premier, Ambassador Harvey and the Marchioness of Queensberry shown below, were among the notables who attended the session.

NEWS OF HARTSELLE

Troop C, 109th Alabama Cavalry have moved to their new home recently completed, and it is said to be the best apportioned and most complete of the kind in the state.

Thirty-two horses are kept at the armory, and men are on hand at all times to see that everything is cared for.

A basket ball court is maintained on the top floor of the building and is proving a fine source of recreation for the members.

Two members of Troop C, 109th Alabama Cavalry will take the competitive examination at Montgomery soon for entrance to West Point. These are Messrs. Herman Thomas and Carl Patillo. The last named is a student at Auburn college. Only one can go from this troop at this time.

Sherman Coley left last Friday for Fort Sam Houston, Texas, to enter the government school there for horse shoers. This makes the second man from this troop to go from here to this school, in the same department.

The government is offering fine opportunities for the young men of this troop to further pursue their education and they must have a high school education before they can be admitted to these institutions.

There are several new students noted at the two schools here beginning with the New Year. The schools are progressing finely and the course

PROGRESSIVES ARE NOT CONVINCED BY NEWBERRY SPEECH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Senator Borah and other progressive Republicans of the senate refused today to accept the explanation of Senator Truman H. Newberry that he was not responsible personally for the expenditure by his family and friends of nearly $200,000 in the Michigan campaign of 1918, which resulted in his nomination.

Senator Kenyon and other senate progressives declared that the primary law at stake in the issue, which the Michigan senator had raised and that the principle involved was whether the candidate might become the beneficiary of a corrupt election even though he subsequently absolved himself of personal participation in it.

It was understood that Borah would take the senate floor in opposition to Newberry's fight to retain his seat. Republican leaders declare that they would be able to command the majority necessary to keep the Michigan senator in his seat.

A canvass of the Republican side was said to have disclosed enough votes to insure an administrative victory, although a number of progressive Republicans flatly declined to vote for Newberry.

Machine That Harvests Rice.

As rice has to be harvested in water, it was thought to be work which would always have to be done by human labor, but a machine has been invented which moves through the deep mud and gathers the grain. It is capable of performing many of the duties of the ordinary tractor.

Before Books Were Plentiful.

The almanac and the family Bible constituted the home library some two hundred years ago. The weather predictions in the almanacs of 180 years ago were occasionally right, and when so proved in any locality, the fame of the predictor was proclaimed abroad, at the corner groceries and tavern bars of the land.

SOME SIGNS

Placard at a moving picture show: "Young Children Must Have Parents." In a barber's window: "During Alterations, Patrons will be Shaved in Back."

Sign in Broadway store: "Empty Boxes—Suitable for Holiday Gifts."

The young people enjoyed a motor ride and had just entered a country road.

"May I kiss your hand?" he asked, a little confused.

She removed her motor veil. "No, I have my gloves on."

The Office Cat, Hortense, is a savage animal. It licks itself every time it eats.

Fast?

Bob—You look sweet enough to eat. Gert—I do! Where shall we go?

Lips that touch liquor shall never be allowed in my cellar.—New York Mail.

Fatty stopped in front of a haberdasher's display window. I asked him if he was thinking of buying a shirt or pajamas or something, and he sighed when he said:

"Gosh, no! The only thing that fits me ready made is a handkerchief."

Some men never seem to want to be at home when the preacher calls.

Lazy people eat hash because it saves chewing.

When an Arkansas girl was sent home from school for powdering her face, her father went straight to a lawyer and sued the school board. Its shame the way some school boards stand in the way of the higher education.

The Old Home Paper

I love to read the Pinkin Center Press. Although I'm far away, I'm interested more or less in what it has to say.

For Pinkin Center is my old home town.

The place from which I came, Although it has no great renown, I love it just the same.

And so I get the paper still And read the weekly take Of who is married, who is ill, And who has gone to jail.

About the only encouraging note in the present situation is the one that is stamped "PAID."

A domestic scientist sues a milk company for publishing over her name an inaccurate waffle recipe. The inclusion of plaster paris was a bit unfortunate.

Here is a notice found in a grocery store: "Provided you get one bad egg from us we will, on your returning it, give you two for it."

That soap is good to eat is the latest discovery of a certain noted scientist. Which, no doubt, accounts for the chap who is always bubbling over with good nature.

I take this means of thanking the public for their patronage through the year 1921, enabling me to satisfy every just claim that was due, and we promise every honest effort to satisfy you in 1922.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Read This Letter from Mrs. W. S. Hughes

Greenville, Del.—"I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had some internal trouble as ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school once for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself and I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I cannot say too much about what your medicine has done for me and for my daughter."—Mrs. Wm. S. Hughes, Greenville, Delaware.

Mother and oftentimes grandmothers have taken and have learned the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So they recommend the medicine to others.

The best test of any medicine is what it has done for others. For nearly fifty years we have published letters from mothers, daughters, and women, young and old, recommending the Vegetable Compound. They know what it did for them and are glad to tell others. In your own neighborhood are women who know of its great value.

Mother—daughters, why not try it?

CORINNE GRIFFITH AT THE DELITE THEATRE TODAY

Corinne Griffith appears at her best as Clara Deane, private secretary of Anthony Blake, in "What's Your Reputation Worth?" which comes to the Delite today. It requires hundreds of extra players and many specially constructed sets. One scene which is shown but a few seconds represents a dream palace. In this set 150 extras are used and two dances of the Metropolitan Opera ballet are seen in solo dances. The action is shifted from New York to the country, in winter time. The company went into the Adirondacks and near a popular winter resort took scenes in this most picturesque of locations. Here Corinne is shown skiing, sleighing and participating in many winter sports. For the production Miss Griffith had a score of new gowns designed. Many of them will be shown at the openings during the coming season. It is a story of a girl who is willing to make great sacrifices in order to bring happiness into the life of the man she loves.

H. Mullen has sub-divided a ten acre tract in the Southeast section of the city of Albany, lying at 8th street and 18th ave., six blocks east of the hospital, containing 60 building lots, on which he purposes to build modern bungalows, the first one of which he has just completed, ready for occupancy, and is now advertised elsewhere in this issue for sale. He states that he will build just as rapidly as he can find sales for them. This furnishes an opportunity for modern homes on large lots at a very moderate cost. He has city water in this addition and has arranged to take care of the sewerage in a modern way. He is also arranging to have electric lights extended to this addition which will then furnish all conveniences necessary for a complete, modern home.
